Open Spaces, 2023 Stockland Head Office, Sydney

This work is an abstract mural designed as a dynamic negotiation of space. Details from the built environment are re-imagined as flat graphic forms which are composed and painted across two walls of the central core uniting the interior design and open plan office spaces.

Overlapping and reversed forms negotiate and reposition themselves to reveal interesting and unexpected moments and relationships. These painted details are a metaphor for the way that buildings and environments can also create moments for people to connect. This artwork celebrates the way that spaces and places can have a positive influence on the way we work and live.
